Call for Papers

The conference and the workshop, hosted by the Institute of Humanities of Mykolas Romeris University (Vilnius, Lithuania), will be held in Vilnius, Lithuania on 12-13 October 2017.

We welcome contributions from scholars, researchers, as well as professional translators. The conference will embrace a broad inclusive perspective on discourse, technology and translation, integrating a workshop which will focus on discourse annotation, multilingual discourse annotation, contrastive analysis and translation.

The conference presents an excellent opportunity for exchange of ideas, insights and latest research focused on, but not limited to:

- Discourse in Humanities
- Discourse in Social Sciences
- Technology in Societal Studies
- Translation Studies

The keynote speakers:

Prof. dr. Sandrine Zufferey, University of Bern

Prof. dr. Jacqueline Visconti, University of Genoa

Assoc. Prof. dr. Carl Vogel, Trinity College Dublin, University of Dublin

The Institute of Humanities welcomes abstract (200-250 words) submissions for the conference. All submissions are peer-reviewed.

Prospective authors are invited to submit full, original research papers which are not submitted, published or under consideration for publication or acceptance in other conferences and journals.
